RESIDENTS AS EDUCATORS

1. The residents are expected to teach medical students, junior residents, and other health care professionals.

2. The residents are required to treat one another and all learners with respect and dignity.

3. The residents will be informed of the expectations as educators during the general orientation at the start of the residency.

4. The residents will be taught how to teach and evaluate learners by the program directors, faculty, and chief residents during the residency training through didactic lectures, small group sessions, role modeling and the AMA’s Introduction to Practice modules.

5. The residents will be evaluated on their teaching by medical students and other learners. The data from their evaluations will be used as part of the semi-annual feedback and evaluation of the residents by their respective program directors.

This policy was approved by the Graduate Medical Education Committee on November 16, 2011.
